LONDON, August 30.

THE King of Prussia went by Water to Cologne, on the 17th Instant at Night, but he was incognito, so no Body knew it till next Morning, a few Minutes before he proceeded to Cleves; but his Brother Prince William did not follow him till two Hours after, because he stay'd to see the Metropolitan Church, it's Treasure, and the Bodies of the three Kings who came to Adore our Saviour: They lie in a Chappel behind the Choir. The Inhabitants of Cologne have such a profound Veneration for them, that 'tis dangerous so much as to question, in a Company of the Burghers, whether they are Genuine. In 1162, when they were first brought from Milan into the City, which was thro' a Gate towards the Rhine, it was wall'd up, that nothing might prophane the Place, thro' which the sacred Relicks passed. Fame attributes many Miracles to them, and they sell for a penny a Dozen little Notes which have touched them, and are supposed therefore to have some of their Virtue.

Tuesday being the Birth Day of the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Walpole, who then entered into the 67th Year of his Age, a grand Entertainment was given on that Occasion at his House at Chelsea, at which were present the Dukes of Grafton and New-castle, the Earls of Wilmington and Pembroke, several foreign Ministers, and divers other Persons of Distinction.

Sept. 9. The Fox Man of War has taken a French Fishing Boat, with about 40 Hands, with suitable Arms and Ammunition. They insisted on their being French, and had no design but Fishing. The Captain not having Faith, carried them and their Boat to Sir John Norris.

Besides the Page Sloop, Capt. Gregory with 100 Hands, another Tender with 130 Men is fallen down the River, and ordered for the Coast Service, to secure our Merchant-men from the Insults of the Spanish Lug-sail Barco-Longas, and French Fishing Boats.

Sept 13. Letters from Petersburgh import, that the Czarina was resolv'd to set on Foot next Spring an Army of 50,000 Men in the Neighbourhood of that City, to prevent as well the Consequence of any Foreign Designs as the Machinations of the Malecontent Russians, who wait all proper Opportunities of Advantage against the Person and Interest of her Czarian Majesty, on Account of her preferring the Germans before the Russians in her Ministry.

And her Majesty has ordered six Men of War to be built against that Time, that nothing may be wanting either by Sea or Land to oppose her Enemies. They write from Stockholm, that the Swedes had laid aside all Hopes of executing their Projects in Finland, the Season being so far advanced, and the French Court backward in sending the promised Supplies, for carrying on the same.

We hear from the Caracas, that the Spaniards there are fitting two Privateers of considerable Force, to cruize on the English Vessels in those Parts.

The following is an exact Copy of a Letter from George Wight now under Sentence of Death in Newgate, for robbing Mr. Martin, a Surgeon of Shadwell, on the High-way near Old-Ford.

'From the Sells at New Geat,

'Sir,

'I haue now a Define for to sell my Bodey, and you are 'willing to bey itt, I desire that you would let me know, and if 'you hant a Mind to bey itt I desire that you would speke to 'sume att your Hall. I am sound Wind and Lime.

'All from Yours,

'For Mr. Marten, Surgent, 'GEO. WIGHT.'

'Shadwell.'

Sept. 18. Having been favoured by some Gentlemen that were Eye-Witnesses of the Action, of the gallant Behaviour of Capt. Spawforth and his People, who in a Sloop with a handfull of Men took a Spanish Privateer with 70 Hands off Carthagena, that was barely mentioned, and imperfectly too in the Papers some time since; in Justice to so much Bravery, we look upon ourselves under an Obligation to entertain our Readers therewith, as follows.

As the Streights, Oporto, and Leghorn Fleets were homeward bound, under Convoy of Capt. Lingen in his Majesty's Ship the Argyll, the Kennington Man of War, Capt. Robinson, at that time also in Company off Carthagena; they discovered a Spanish Privateer hovering about the Fleet, which the Kennington directly gave Chase to, but to no Purpose: The Spaniard was as much too nimble for her, as a Plate-Horse for a Hackney Hobby. This Capt. Spawforth perceiving, who was between the Privateer and the Shore in, a Bermudas Sloop, bound to Gibraltar with Provisions for the Garrison, and no ways belonging to the Fleet; he sailed boldly out to him, and clapped him on board, and in the Heat of the Engagement having killed the Spanish Captain, obliged her to strike, tho' she had 70 Men. This heroick Exploit was so justly admired by Capt. Lingen, that when the Prize was brought to him, he and his People generously and chearfully, with one Voice, resigned their Shares in her to Spawforth and his little Company, for whose use she was afterwards sold, and divided amongst them at Gibraltar. But the Value of the Capture is inconsiderable to the Consequence attending her being intercepted, which probably was nothing less than the Preservation of the whole Fleet; for by searching the Captain's Papers they found, that being a Prime Sailer, he was dispatched from Cadiz as a Spy upon the Fleet, and after a Discovery of the Number and Strength thereof, his Instructions were to return to the Harbour, where were five stout Men of War manned, and fitted ready to put to Sea, that would, had the Privateer reach'd back to his Port, according to the Opinion of the Commanders, as the Wind then stood, have inevitably fell in with them in the Gut of Gibraltar, and made an easy Prey of them, as well the two King's Ships as Merchantmen.

A

A Gentleman writes from Dover, that he was at Dunkirk the 2d Inſtant, O. S. The Duke de Boufflers was then there with ſeveral Engineers; that 200 Men were at hard work in levelling the Ruins of the two Forts at the Entrance of the Port, in order to plant Batteries thereon; that they were caſting 150 Braſs Cannon, and that 100 Bilanders are employed in making the River navigable again.

Our Advices from Paris, of the 24th Inſtant, N. S. ſay, that the day before, an Arret of Parliament was publiſhed there, reducing to Brown and White-Brown, all the Bread bak'd by the Bakers of that City; and forbidding them to make any white Bread or Roles under the Penalty of 1000 Livres Fine, and loſing the Freedom of the City.

We hear from Amſterdam, that by ſome Advices from Petersburgh, the Britiſh Miniſter uſes his utmoſt Endeavours to haſten the Concluſion of a Treaty of Alliance between Ruſſia and Great-Britain. This Treaty is ſo forward that it is not doubted but it will be ſigned.

DUBLIN, Sept. 26.

Extract of a Letter from Liſle, dated Sept. 6. O. S.

The People here are in a great Hurry. Monſieur Jiory, a Lieutenant General, came Poſt here the Night before laſt, and Yeſterday ſet out Poſt for Dunkirk; to which Place I met three Regiments extraordinary marching. The French in general cry out for a War as much as the Engliſh; and I was not a little ſurpriz'd to ſee their Troops ſo good. The Harveſt here is very backward, but the Crop good.

Leghorn, Aug. 15 O. S. Yeſterday a French Tartan arrived from Tunis, which will be oblig'd to perform Quarentine to its utmoſt Extent, becauſe we hear the Plague increaſes at Algiers, where, according to Advices from Marſeilles, 5 or 600 People die of it in a Day.

Leghorn, Aug. 16. O. S. The Maſter of a Ship, lately arrived from the Levant, reports that the Depoſition of the late Grand Vizier has not appeaſed the Inhabitants of Conſtantinople, who demand that the Chief of the Eunuchs of the Seraglio ſhall alſo be depoſed. They alledge that this Miniſter being one of the principal Favourites of the Grand Signior, abuſes the Power with which he is intruſted; ſo that it's believed his Highneſs will be obliged to ſacrifice this Favourite to the Reſentment of the People, in order to eſtabliſh Tranquility in his Capital. Letters from Malta, of the 3d Inſtant ſay, that a Catalan Privateer having perceived upon the Coaſts of that Iſland a large Ship without Colours, which ſhe took to be Engliſh, upon that Preſumption attacked her; whereupon the Ship put out Algerine Colours, and gave the Privateer two Broadſides, by which ſhe received ſo much Damage, that he muſt have ſubmitted to the Danger that threatned him, had he not reſolved upon boarding the Algerine, into which the Spaniards immediately jump'd, and made ſo great a Slaughter, that they ſoon became Maſters of the Ship, tho' they were not half ſo many in Number as the Algerines.

Conſtantinople, Aug. 14. Count d' Ulefeld the Imperial Ambaſſador made his publick Entry into this Capital the Wedneſday before with great Pomp. All is perfectly quiet at preſent, the Minds of the Populace being moderated ſince the Miniſtry uſes all poſſible means towards lowering the Price of Proviſions. The new Grand Vizier has made himſelf the Darling of the People, being in no wiſe of ſo haughty a Nature as his Predeceſſor, who being depoſed and ſent to Egypt, has however been allowed to keep his Treaſure and Domeſticks, a Thing which ſeldom happens.

Bruſſels, Sept. 19. The Publick is greatly pleaſed with the Vigorous Reſolution of his Pruſſian Majeſty againſt the Prince of Liege, conjecturing that this Incident will greatly contribute towards a ſpeedy Accommodation of the Differences which have already ſubſiſted for a whole Year between our Magiſtrates and the ſaid Prince, to the great Detriment of both Countries.

ANTIGUA, October 31.

This Day arrived a Sloop from Barbadoes, ſent down by the Governor of that Iſland to inform the Government here, that the French at Martinico are fitting out 45 Sail of Privateers, to be joined with 18 Sail of large Men of War, lately arrived there. It's ſuppoſed they deſign to attack all the Leward Iſlands. Great Preparations are on foot here to give them a proper Reception.

New-York, Nov. 24. Laſt Wedneſday Capt. Hill arrived here from Jamaica, by whom we have Advice, that Admiral Vernon was ſailed from thence, but it's not known to what Place.

Capt. Hill met with one of our Men of War (about 30 Leagues on this ſide Jamaica) which convoyed our Troops from the Capes of Virginia; and ſoon after he ſaw a Fleet of Ships (19 or 20 in Number) which he ſuppoſed to be our Voluntiers.

A LETTER from the Rev. Mr. WHITEFIELD to a Friend at New-York.

My dear Friend, Salem, Novemb. 20. 1740.

'ACcording to my Promiſe, I now ſnatch a few Moments to 'ſend you a ſhort Account of the Houſe lately erected at 'Philadelphia. I was pleaſingly ſurprized at the Sight of it: 'It is 100 Feet long, and 70 Feet wide, and now juſt ready to 'be covered. The Footſteps of Providence have been very diſ'cernable both in the Foundation and Superſtructure. GOD 'muſt have the ſole Glory. As I am choſen one of the Truſtees, 'and have promiſed to procure a Maſter and Miſtreſs for the 'firſt Scholars, I think it my Duty to make what Intereſt I can 'towards carrying on ſo good a Work. The Houſe is intended 'for publick Worſhip, and a Charity-School: None but ortho'dox experimental Miniſters are to preach in it, and ſuch are to 'have free Liberty, of whatever Denomination. I know you are 'ready to every good Work*; if you can get any Subſcrip'tions for this Purpoſe, you will do well. The Managers, as at 'the Beginning, ſo now alſo, depend on GOD for future Sup'plies. I have preached in this Houſe ſeveral Times; the Lord 'was with us of a Truth: Let this encourage you to promote it 'with all your Might. That GOD may herein make you ſuc'ceſsful, is the hearty Prayer, of

Your affectionate Friend and Servant,

GEORGE WHITEFIELD.

Reedy-Iſland, Nov. 26. To day ſeveral Friends left the Rev. Mr. WHITEFIELD at this Place, waiting for a fair Wind, in order to embark for Georgia. He has been on Shore from his Arrival at Rhode-Iſland 73 Days, has rode upwards of 800 Miles, and preach'd 130 Times, beſides very frequent Exhortations in private Houſes where he has been. He has collected in Goods and Money upwards of Seven Hundred Pounds Sterling. Great and viſible Fruits have attended his late as well as former Labours; and People ſeem, for the Generality, more eager after the Word than ever. He purpoſes, GOD willing, to embark for England about February, and to return into theſe Parts of America the latter end of next Year.--- All his Correſpondents are deſired to direct their Letters to be left with Mr. James Hutton, Bookſeller, without Temple-Bar, London.
